Accomplished business event executive to deliver InfoSec World and diverse lineup of innovative learning properties

New York, NY, June 22, 2021 -- CyberRisk Alliance ("CRA"), a fast-growing business intelligence company serving the cybersecurity community, today named John DelMauro Executive VP, CRA Learning, the company's integrated events operation.

DelMauro has a strong background in business event innovation, most recently at CREtech, a commercial real estate technology focused events business where, as President, he led major live event introductions, international acquisitions and launched the industry's largest virtual event with more than 5,000 participants. Prior to that, DelMauro was Senior VP, Conferences, Events and Subscriptions at Source Media, overseeing over 40 annual fintech, financial services, healthcare and technology events delivered in an extensive range of formats.

In his new role, DelMauro will direct CRA's lineup of over 200 events, comprised of topic-centric digital sessions, exclusive CISO roundtable communities, and multi-day, multi-track conferences, including flagship property InfoSec World, set to return live in Orlando, October 25-27. DelMauro's team will provide innovative education to a vibrant community of cybersecurity leaders, practitioners, and content creators through a diverse and unique event portfolio.

DelMauro will report to CRA President, John Whelan, who commented on the appointment, "We're delighted to add an executive of John's caliber to lead our events portfolio. John has an impressive track record as a growth oriented executive who builds innovative events and programs. As we emerge from COVID-19 and the industry continues to evolve and expand, we look forward to exciting product launches and expanded solutions under John's leadership."

Said DelMauro, "This is an incredible opportunity to be joining CRA at this moment in time. Our ability to pair our digital platform with live events coming back into the world, and to serve up learning across event mediums, is very exciting and has high potential for growth."
